November 2014

"AS CRIANÇAS DA CASA DA CALÇADA"

The exhibition "As Crianças da Casa da Calçada"- (The Children from the House of the Calçada), accompanies the official release of a children's book with the same title, to be held on the 28th of November. The story and all the display is developed from characters featuring the museum's collection and a plot that recovers neglected values, involving the museum's facilities and many of its pieces. The project offers a new approach and a new way of promoting the institution's collections. The exploration of different objects and their cultural origins, the interconnection between those cultures and their transposition to the island's daily life, with its own traditions and experiences, are enriching and appealing factors that allow the museum to offer something less ordinary.

The project, planned to celebrate the work developed over a decade by House-Museum Frederico de Freitas/Educational Services Department, is conducted in partnership with Madeira Ethnographic Museum and counts on the support of "Escola Básica e Secundária Dr. Ângelo Augusto da Silva", as well as with the collaboration from other private volunteers. It's a different commitment, particularly targeted to diversified local publics.

"MAI MAIORES QU'ESSEI SERRAS"

Two old man around 70 or 80 year-old, under an oak tree, approach a foreigner. They grab that opportunity with the same love that they treasure the land that marks their hands. From a small hill that didn't seem to be very special and from an empty stage, arises a performance with no limits.

The "Associação Teatro Feiticeiro do Norte" (Theatre Association Sorcerer of the North) is also an itinerant theatrical team, and with the play "mai maiores qu'essei serras" (Even higher than those mountains) from the homonymous short story by Jorge Sumares, written in April 1960, states that: "tá serra que meta medo à gente" (There's no mountain or hill that frightens us)

On August 16, 2014, in Diário de Notícias da Madeira, António Fournier, wrote: an authentic radiography of our imaginary, a subtle analysis of an individual's psychology, who Nemésio considered to be "one of the most plastic men in the land's neighbourhood" (...) a reunion with the deepest of our own myths.

"CINDERELLA"

The most recent production by TEF – Funchal's Theatre Company is a story for all ages. The story goes around Dulcinea who, by her father's death, stays at the care of her beloved stepmother, Mrs. Firmina, who treats her as a maid of all work.

At the time of a Great Ball organized by Prince Tinhorão, Dona Firmina tries everything to make him fall in love with one of her two daughters, Margarida or Rosinha. And as for Cinderella? Well, even prevented from going to the Ball by her stepmother, she'll manage to attend it with the help of her fairy godmother, and as expected... the Prince will completely fall love with our Dulcinea - Cinderella.
